RAN AWAY TO THE CIRCUS

OVERVIEW

Circus, a beloved form of entertainment for centuries all around the world, is about to be captured in a whole new way.

A female led documentary team and Marina Cherry, a trained circus artist are partnering up to bring viewers an enlightening and intimate look at the art of contemporary circus. This film will explore how circus has evolved over the years and how performing this art can take an emotional and physical toll on those who dedicate themselves to it.

OVERVIEW

As our main subject, Marina, prepares for opening night of her new show in Brussels, Belgium we'll be giving you a behind-the-scenes look at the various aspects of being a circus artist. We will capture the artists' arduous physical training, the research process that shapes the choreography, set design and costumes, and the emotional stories that have inspired the performances.

OVERVIEW

Numerous interviews will be included in the film with Marina, her larger circus community and her family, with the goal to better understand contemporary circus from those most familiar with it.

Not shying away from challenging topics, the film will explore the sometimes controversial issues that come with living a life as an artist. Body image, social media, financial strain and imposter syndrome are just some of the topics we'll cover. As we unpack these stories we find that ultimately, following your passion is worth it.

This visually stunning documentary will come to its climax at the opening night of the never before seen show, allowing the audience to witness firsthand the culmination of Marina's hard work, dedication, and passion.

OVERVIEW

Through this documentary, viewers will be invited to witness an authentic portrait of contemporary circus and gain a greater appreciation and understanding of this unique form of artistry.

THE WHY

1. We want the audience to understand the mind blowing and dangerous spectacle that is CIRCUS!
2. We want the audience to understand the unique, quirky, OBSESSION that has lead circus performers to dedicate their bodies and lives to this art.
3. We want the audience to understand the ugly history of exploitation that circus was born from and how it has evolved into the incredible performance art that it is today. One that allows artists to have agency over their own story and how they want to use their bodies to tell it.

WHO IS MARINA CHERRY?

Marina is a contemporary circus artist based in Brussels, Belgium. She grew up in a small town in Montana where circus did not exist. After seeing her first circus performance at the age of 16, she dropped everything to dedicate her life to becoming an artist in this field.

Miraculously, having little to no training, Marina got into the top circus school in the world (ENC). A phenomenon that simply does not happen. Through her studies she has found her discipline at the intersection of dance, contemporary circus and physical theatre. When watching her, you can see her speaking her own language through her body and movements.

Marina is an artist in high demand, she travels around Europe collaborating on various projects. She also created her own solo show “Only Bones” that performs ongoing throughout Europe and in the U.S.

WITNESSING THE CREATION PROCESS

"ART NEEDS TIME TO INCUBATE, TO SPRAWL A LITTLE, TO BE UNGAINLY AND MISSHAPEN AND FINALLY EMERGE AS ITSELF. THE EGO HATES THIS FACT. THE EGO WANTS INSTANT GRATIFICATION AND THE ADDICTIVE HIT OF ACKNOWLEDGED WIN." - JULIA CAMERON
